

TUNING MEDA: Questionnaire on Generic and Specific Competences

Questionnaire sur les compétences génériques et spécifiques

Dear colleague,

This questionnaire is a part of Tuning MEDA (Tuning Middle East and North Africa) project that aims at implementing Bologna tools in Southern Neighbouring Area universities through building a framework of comparable, compatible, and transparent programs of studies.

This questionnaire is also a part of major consultation process in which universities can enhance mutual understanding of degrees across the Southern Neighbouring Area and European Union through mutual work and discussion. This will include consideration of what the focus of the studies might be, the teaching, learning and assessment approaches, the quality assurance and the credit weight of courses.

We are kindly asking you to help us by completing this questionnaire; the questions are about the relative importance of generic and subject-specific competences in your subject area. Your view is very important and gives significant contribution to our knowledge about which competences are important and which graduates the people of Middle East and North Africa want to see in the future.

For that reason, together we have to reflect on the competences which we would wish students to have acquired by the time they enter the employment. In order to do this, we need to get and analyse the views from a range of different and equally important groups of people: actual students, graduates, academics who teach in universities and, of course, employers.

Consequently, by spending a few minutes of your time in completing an on-line anonymous questionnaire, you will assist T-MEDA project and contribute in the international consultation process. The survey is divided into two parts.

Part One will ask you to assess the importance of generic competences in the educational programme, and the extent to which these generic competences are developed in the university from which you graduated (for graduates), are about to graduate (for students), in which you work (for academics) or cooperate (for employers).

Part Two will ask you to assess the importance of every listed subject specific competence that graduate should have and the level of development of these subject specific competences in the university from which you graduated (for graduates), are about to graduate (for students), in which you work (for academics) or cooperate (for employers).

Please respond to all questions; do not leave any question without answer.

Thank you very much for your cooperation.
