T-Meda Project

Cyprus

16 Feb. 2015

Common characteristics of most of the existing law programmes:

- Similar areas of knowledge
- Semester-based credit system
- Graduates are eligible for the same professional careers

Comparing existing programmes with the Meta-profile

Following the elaboration of the meta-profile for law, members of the Law SAG have reported, individually, a general comparison between the profiles of their respective law programmes and the meta-profile for law

General conclusions

- * Existing law programmes converge with the meta-profile in respect of various competences.
- * However, discrepancies are:
  - certain competences are not defined in existing profiles
  - the lack of specific definition of the competence-based objectives of each course.
